Abstracts should be submitted to dmj@dal.ca. DMJ will respond to each author with a file number. The author will submit each manuscript and all figures as separate attachments using the file number as indicated. All requirements including the format of references, layout and figures will be confirmed by the editor before the manuscript is reviewed.

The Dalhousie Medical Journal will consider abstracts and manuscripts in English which deal with any aspect of medicine including basic science, clinical medicine, surgery, medical education, medicolegal affairs, medical humanities and public health. The Journal will also consider for publication a limited number of creative writing pieces for which there are no specific criteria, but which are more likely to be accepted if relevant to health or medical sciences. An accompanying cover letter signed by all authors should state that the manuscript has not been published by another journal, nor is it under consideration by another journal.

Please see www.eDMJ.ca for detailed manuscript requirements.

Are you an Expert?

In accordance with our philosophy all submissions to the DMJ will be reviewed by professional members of the medical and scientific community. We are excited about the outcome of this initiative for both the quality of the DMJ as well as the experience for our students. This process will enable efficient communication between authors and reviewers and provide an opportunity for students to improve their research and manuscript writing skills. If you are interested in becoming a reviewer please contact us at dmj@dal.ca. You may be given one or two manuscripts each year for editing. The reviewer and the author will communicate by email until the reviewer is satisfied with the manuscript and submits it to the editor for publication.

We look forward to hearing from you.

The DMJ team!
The Dalhousie Medical Journal (DMJ) was created by the medical students of Dalhousie University and was first published in 1957. After issue 22, the journal ceased to exist for some time for financial reasons. However, issue 23 was published in November of 1995 and the DMJ has been a semiannual publication since.

This academic term marks the tenth anniversary of the re-emergence of the journal, and has been a notable year for the DMJ. The executive team have come together to establish an extensive Publications Manual as well as a number of strategies to improve the quality of this publication. We are committed to the philosophy that the DMJ was created to provide high quality, peer-reviewed health-related articles to Atlantic Canada and that its existence should encourage and develop the research interests and writing skills of Dalhousie medical students. It is with these important goals in mind that we plan to expand our services and material over the next several years.

In addition, we have recently created www.eDMJ.ca. Please visit us online to review previous issues and to find additional information on many of the pertinent concerns of our medical students and of the medical profession as a whole.

The DMJ would like to thank all of its previous and current Patrons. Opportunities for our authors and for the publication of our print and online editions would not be possible without your generous support. To become a Patron of the Dalhousie Medical Journal, please send a cheque for $50.00 per issue (or $200.00 for 5 issues) to the address on the form below. You will be acknowledged as a “Patron of the Dalhousie Medical Journal” on page 1 of the print edition of the DMJ and online at www.eDMJ.ca.
