Curatorial Reports

The Curatorial Reports of the Nova Scotia Museum contain information on the collections and the preliminary results of research projects carried out under the program of the museum. The reports may be cited in publications but their manuscript status should be clearly stated.

Acknowledgements

This report would not have been possible without the many tedious hours of typing specimen information into the computer accomplished by Debbie Musgrave. The cataloguing was done by Robert Ogilvie with the help of Tracy Webb, Bill Power, Ken Tully, and Tom Gallant. Mr. Ogilvie was employed under the federal National Museums Program while the others were employed under provincial winter or summer works programs. Their dedicated work is gratefully acknowledged here. Corrections and editing were performed by Debbie Musgrave, Fred Scott and the author.

Introduction

The Mineral Collections of the Nova Scotia Museum have been accumulating since 1833. It is only now, with the aid of rapid electronic data processing, that the information contained in the collections can easily be prepared in a variety of special formats. The collection information presented here is an abbreviated form of the total data held on each specimen.

This report has been compiled using an Apple III computer running Haba's software package entitled /// E-Z Pieces™ (three easy pieces).

Collection Information

All the information about a particular specimen is recorded on a Specimen Record sheet. Each sheet has 58 "fields" of information. A field is a unit of information, such as the mineral's name, or locality from which it was collected or the collector's name, etc. Appendix A is a Specimen Record sheet which contains the information about specimen number 980GM7.2. Since the majority of specimens do not have information for all the fields, only the essential information was entered into the computer. The fields recorded in the computer are :

Information in this index

The index of minerals has been prepared to enable one to see at a glance the contents of the Museum's Mineral Collection. Detailed localities have not been given for the sensitive areas of the collection. Also it should be noted that in the listings, the full contents of each field could not be displayed, resulting in truncation of the information. This is illustrated below with the full record and with it reduced to its modified form in the EXAMPLE LISTING on the following page. The 'e' of Lake and the information following it has been cut off. Because of space limitations several fields have not been included in the index.

How to use this index

The minerals listed here are in alphabetical order by species and variety names. Mineral names used are in accordance with the Glossary of Mineral Species 1983 by Michael Fleischer¹. They are secondarily arranged by locality. The locality is given in two separate columns. The first lists the sub-province, province and country of origin. These are most commonly called County, Province and Country. The second locality column provides detailed information about where the specimen was collected. Both locality columns are in alphabetical order. The last column lists the catalogue number for each specimen. These are in numerical order when more than one specimen originates from the same locality.

An example listing is given here. If you were trying to locate amethyst (a variety of quartz) from McKay Head, it is a simple matter of finding the listing of Quartz, under the mineral NAME, then finding amethyst under the VARIETY; locate Cumberland under the CO., PROV., COUNTRY column, since McKay Head is in Cumberland County; then locate McKay within the column headed by LOCALITY. If you wish to see the specimen, you may then make a note of the catalogue number (CAT. NO.) and contact the Curator of Geology.
