

About the Authors:

Anna Jacquart (she/her) is a first year MI student, who currently works as an academic advisor at Dalhousie. When not working or studying you can find her volunteering with Girl Guides, walking her dog or planning a trip. In her young adult years, Anna was part of a local Dinner Theatre in her hometown in Sambro, Nova Scotia. She would act, sing, and attempt to dance.

Alissa Kossar (she/her) is a first year MI student at Dalhousie University, focusing her studies on public librarianship and youth librarianship. When not at Dalhousie, she enjoys playing and snuggling with her cat, doing yoga, and hiking. In fourth grade she played Pepper and Bert Healy in her summer camp's rendition of Annie, which she is still proud of.

Isabel Brechin (she/they) is a first year MI student, focusing on public librarianship. When not in school she loves to cook elaborate meals for friends, garden, and read silly romance novels. In high school, she was a lone stage tech at her small school, responsible for operating the one and only spotlight (it was an on/off switch).

Anne Summerhays (she/her) is a graduating MI student at Dalhousie University who is also working as a Research and Reference intern at Dalhousie Libraries. Never actually able to get past her stage fright sufficiently to act in her high school's amazing plays, she contented herself with singing in the school choir and was friends with the band geeks and many of the theatre crew. Anne has a passion for music, dance, and theatre, and is excited to share this love in her future work.

Lisa Phinney (she/her) is a graduating MI student at Dalhousie University who is a records manager with Canada Post. When not in school she enjoys playing hockey and soccer, singing whenever she can, and hanging out with her cat Emmie. Lisa has taken singing lessons off and on since she was 9, did competitive dance for 6 years, and was in her grade 6 and grade 9 plays. Her crowning theatre achievement was playing the wardrobe in her high school play of Beauty and the Beast.

Nolan Goguen (he/they) is a first year MI student at Dalhousie University pursuing a certification in Youth and Children's Services. He also has a history in theatre and performance, graduating from St. Thomas University with a degree in English Concentrating in Drama, with a specific focus in musical theatre. They are very excited to have found a way to bring his passion for theatre into their work at Dalhousie and is looking forward to exercising these skills moving forward.
